Project Description

We are looking for a creative student with graphics and social media experience to create visually appealing infographics for our social media platforms on a range of nonproliferation topics. And, we also like to know what others are saying about us. Who doesn't? So we are looking for someone to comb through daily social media feeds and let us know what is happening outside our echo chamber. This is a great way to stay on top of the latest issues in security and nonproliferation, while maybe coming across a juicy Twitter fight in the process.
