

Wiki Conversion Project for Embassy Bangkok

Project Title	Wiki Conversion Project for Embassy Bangkok
Project Summary	Are you a Wikipedia pro? Embassy Bangkok is looking for help converting hundreds of pages from an existing website to a wiki format. Candidates with IT and/or programming background are encouraged to apply.
Country	Thailand
Agency	Department of State
DoS Office	N/A
Post	BANGKOK
Section	IM
Number of Interns	1

Project Description

Our office would like to convert approximately 750 pages from an existing website to a wiki format. Note: The pages are programming instructions for telephone systems used in Department of State facilities worldwide. Each page, currently in HTML, is approximately 1-2 printed pages of content, with headers, titles, tables, formatted text, and variable spacing. Additionally, some standard formatting will be added to each page- a creative commons license block, an agency-specific information box, reference links, and an office symbol block. Both will be provided, though the creative commons license will need to be updated for each page. Note: The wiki language used is the standard wiki markup language, commonly available from Wikipedia.org. A successful result for each page will be a text file named the same as the original page, and the contents of the text file will be the source code that can be copy/pasted into an intranet wiki with a final result that is similar in appearance (doe

Desired Skills Interests

Skill

Visual

Storytelling

programming

public diplomacy
IT
wikimedia

Additional Information

Blogging/writing skills. Skills in creating visually appealing inspirational articles used for outreach. Will be required to write ongoing short reports summarizing IT supporting diplomacy in the field. General IT knowledge.

Language Requirements

None