Project Description

The Office of Development Finance in the Bureau of Economic and Business Affairs is looking for motivated and curious virtual interns with interest in international development issues.

As a member of a three-intern team, you will track various viewpoints, news, and related research on development issues and provide concise summaries to our Department of State economic officers.? Your efforts will help U.S. diplomats to stay updated on the latest news, expert opinions, and research on international development topics around the world.

You will learn about the U.S. development policies and global development trends, develop strong writing skills by following the Department of State writing guidelines, improve your teamwork skills, and gain an understanding of the U.S. foreign policy making process.?

What else is in it for you in this position?? Our mentorship, flexible workload, opportunity to expand your professional network, and, if desired, a chance to work on a longer-term research project that would be in line with our policy priorities and/or interests.

The main skills and knowledge that we are looking for are intellectual curiosity, ability to write clearly and concisely, willingness to be a team player, and a basic knowledge of global economic and development trends.

About our office:? the Office of Development Finance (ODF) fosters economic development around the world and promotes the prosperity of the United States by developing new markets overseas, supporting export opportunities, and strengthening U.S. international economic ties.?
