

Project Title	Intel.gov Writing and Research
Project Summary	In this position, you will help with research and writing for new sections of the Intel.gov website.
Country	United States

Project Description

Intel.gov is the IC's website that helps educate the public on the Intelligence Community and its missions, as well as present stories about the IC and the people who work there. Your work will be to help research and write content for new special projects being presented on Intel.gov. An example of a prior special project is the "Argentina Declassification Review", found at <https://www.intelligence.gov/index.php/argentina-declassification-project/overview>

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)

Research

Writing

Additional Information

None

Language Requirements

None