Additional Information

Peace Corps is a unique place to work. People that work here are very passionate about the mission, and the passion comes through in their work. Peace Corps has a 5-year limit on positions, so there is a lot of staff turnover. And with this 5 year rule, staff want to make the most of their time and learn all they can while they are here. This is what makes training especially important, but it also means that as an intern you will have a lot of learning opportunities available to you.

The ability to be flexible, and experience with SharePoint are preferred.
