Share the story of Youth Workforce Development at USAID

Project Title	Share the story of Youth Workforce Development at USAID
Project Summary	Help research and share the stories of USAID’s over 30-year legacy in supporting youth workforce development programming in developing countries. You will work at USAID’s Office of Education to research, draft, write, and edit stories, reports, and create compelling visuals.
Country	United States

Project Description

USAID’s Office of Education is looking for a creative individual with a passion for storytelling and an interest in youth. USAID's work in youth workforce development teaches foundational, technical,entrepreneurial, and other critical skills that youth need to lead productive lives; it stretches across several bureaus. Help us gather stories, conduct analysis, and create new materials that showcase the importance of investing in youth workforce and skills development in order to help a country on its journey to self-reliance.
