Aid the State Department in the creation of Government Leadership Tools

| | |
|---|---|
| Project Title | Aid the State Department in the creation of Government Leadership Tools |
| Project Summary | Interested in learning about what makes a successful leader and an efficient governmental official? If so, join the Department of State in the creation of tools for America's future leaders. |
| Country | United States |

Project Description

You will be tasked with researching the characteristics of successful leaders and identifying what organizations in both the public and the private sector are doing in order to develop their employees' leadership skills. You will also be responsible for identifying which skills in particular pertain to success in government roles. After the completion of this research, you will be tasked with compiling resources and opportunities to aid students who would like to pursue a career in government or leadership in developing the skills that you have identified.

Required Skills or Interests

| Skill(s) |
|---|
| Editing and proofreading |
| Educational design |
| Research |
| Writing |

Additional Information

We are looking for highly-motivated, independent, and detail oriented individuals that are dedicated to the professional development of others and are interested in getting people involved in government. We are looking for a 8-10 hour per week commitment, with flexibility.

Language Requirements

None